

Diagnostic challenges in an atypical chest pain, Teitze syndrome: a case report in Northeast of Iran

mohammad reza Taghavi¹, Samaneh Mollazadeh², and mina sadat mohajerzadeh¹

¹North Khorasan University of Medical Sciences

²Affiliation not available

May 16, 2020

Abstract

Tietze's syndrome is an inflammatory disorder which is frequently misdiagnosed as the severe life-threatening problem. Herein, we report a case of a 23-year-old male who he was diagnosed with Tietze's syndrome. Since the precise diagnosis of Tietze's syndrome has great importance, our report may raise consciousness to manage this condition.

Hosted file

manuscrpit.doc available at <https://authorea.com/users/322595/articles/451553-diagnostic-challenges-in-an-atypical-chest-pain-teitze-syndrome-a-case-report-in-northeast-of-iran>

